84 Gifts to Auburn Pass $11.2 Million

Auburn University reached an all-time high in private support to the university last year, receiving gifts totaling $23.89 million. Foremost in private support was the transfer of the $11.5 million bequest from the trust established through the estate of Eleanor Ritchie for the support of the School of Veterinary Medicine. Another important milestone in private support came last month with the announcement that the Auburn Generations Fund has reached $80 million in gifts and pledges combined.

More than 7,000 alumni and friends made gifts to Auburn Annual Giving, Auburn Generations Fund, and the Athletic Scholarship Fund during 1984, for a total of $11.2 million. This issue of The Alumnews is devoted to a listing of the honors to Auburn last year. The listing by class year begins on page 2, and special club listings are scattered throughout the paper. A breakdown of the figures shows that 1,009 gifts came from alumni, 819 from friends of Auburn, 245 from companies, 13 from companies who were matching alumni gifts to Auburn, and 27 from companies who both matched gifts of their employees and also made a gift. The listing does not include Alumni Dues payers or participants in Greater Auburn Fund-Athletics.

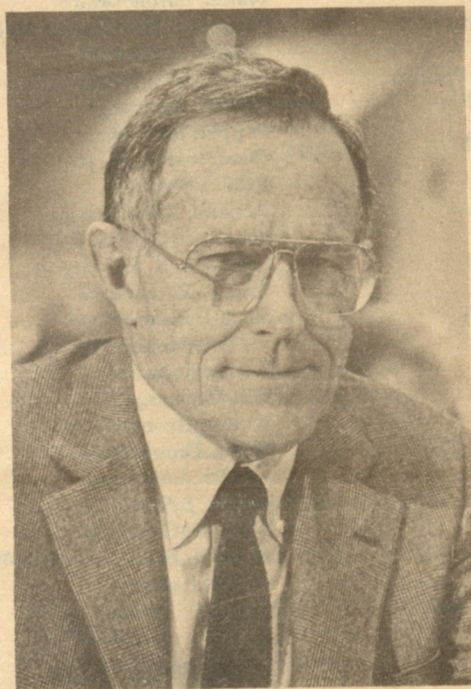

Of the 7,293 gifts to Auburn, 3,684 were above $100. A gift of $100 to $299 qualifies for the Century Club, a gift of $300 to $499 the Pacesetters' Club, a gift of $500 to $999 the Deans' Club, and $1,000 and above the President's Club.

Members of the Century Club for 1984 totaled 2,302 and gave $302,848.20 to Auburn. The list of Century Club members begins on page 11.

The 259 Pacesetters gave $85,169 to Auburn during 1984. The Pacesetters are listed on page 21.

Deans' Club alumni and friends totaled an even 300 and gave $167,592.62 to various Auburn projects for the year. The Deans' Club listing begins on page 22.

Second in number only to the Century Club, the President's Club boasts 823 members for 1984 and contributed $3,329,981.45 to Auburn. The President's Club Members are listed on page 23.

Trustees Postpone Action on Plans to Reorganize University; Ed.D. Graduate Makes History as 1st Black Trustee, 2nd Woman

At the February 9 meeting, the Auburn Board of Trustees again failed to take action on the proposed reorganization plan for the university. Changes in the structure of the university have been recommended by university self-study groups as well as the accreditation team of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The board had been expected to act on the plan, all details of which have not been made public, in early December.

The meeting was the first for two recently-appointed trustees—Emory Cunningham '48 of Birmingham and Dr. Bessie Holloway '83, who had been appointed to the board two days earlier and who becomes the first black trustee and the second woman to serve on the Auburn board. Dr. Cunningham, who holds an honorary degree from Auburn, was appointed in January to complete the term of Dr. Frank P. Samford, Jr., '41. Dr. Holloway will fill the remainder of the term of John W. Pace, III, '46 of Mobile, who resigned after 21 years on the board. Dr. Holloway's term will end in 1988. She is coordinator of instruction in the Mobile elementary schools. She holds a B.S. from Alabama State, the M.A. in elementary education from Xavier University of Louisiana, and the Ed.D. from Auburn.

Although it failed to act on the larger question of university reorganization, the board did take a number of actions dealing with other activities including the hiring of a firm to supervise maintenance on the campus, the acceptance of a gift of land from Section Gin and Grain Co., and the passing of resolutions commending former trustees Pace and Samford.

The trustees also approved resolutions terminating the leases of four Auburn fraternities, whose houses are located on property where the university plans to build a hotel and conference center. The four fraternities—Alpha Gamma Rho, Delta Sigma Phi, Pi Kappa Phi, and Phi Delta Theta—will be required to surrender the property no later than June 15.

In other action, the Board approved the 1984 financial report, passed a resolution praising Dr. Martin's leadership of the university at the completion of his first year, established a project for a $3.3 million expansion of the University Center at AUM, and heard Dr. Martin's report on the current state of the budget.

Dr. Martin told the board that Gov. George Wallace's budget requests include a 19.83 percent increase for Auburn's main campus academic programs. In addition the governor's budget asked for increases of 16.39 percent for AUM, 19.37 percent for the Agricultural Experiment Station, and 19.37 percent for the Cooperative Extension Service. The governor's budget also includes $2,947,277 in one-year, non-recurring money for several projects on the main campus. Those projects are $400,000 for a highway research center, $100,000 for equipment, $437,277 for research library enhancement, and $1.9 million for deferred maintenance. The budget includes $1.25 million in non-recurring money for AUM.

For the first time, Dr. Martin pointed out to the board, the Auburn School of Veterinary Medicine is budgeted in a separate line item, as are other veterinary schools and medical schools in the Southeast. The governor's budget proposes $7,640,321 in state allocations for veterinary medicine.

Another of President Martin's legislative priorities is the Eminent Scholars Bill, for which the governor has included funds in his budget. Under that bill, two versions of which have been introduced in the Legislature by Rep. Jim Campbell and Sen. Donald Holmes, the state would provide matching funds for any four-year institution which could get private donations of $500,000 to endow a professorship.

Dr. Martin called the 1985 Auburn budget "a good start" but said he hopes that it will improve as the budget process continues. The Auburn president said that he hopes that a $590,000 line item request for pulp and paper research at Auburn will be funded as well as increases for the Engineering Extension Service.

Placement Services For Alumni Include Referrals, Job Newsletter

Although the Auburn University Placement Service is generally thought of as serving students only, it is gradually expanding its services to aid Auburn alumni. The two main services offered for alumni are a referral service and the employment bulletin.

Alumni may, free of charge, maintain active files with the Placement Service, which will mail information to prospective employers or make resumes available to employers who come to campus in search (Continued on back page)

Placement Services

of employees with more experience than just-graduated alumni.

To take advantage of the resume referral service, alumni need to provide current information to the Placement Service. They then can request that the information be sent to a particular employer and/or be kept in the open resume files on campus for employers to review. To establish a file or update an established file, alumni can write the Placement Service at 400 Martin Hall, Auburn University, AL 36849 or call (205) 826-4313.

In addition to operating the resume referral service for alumni, the Placement Service also prints the Alumni Employment Bulletin. The bulletin is published twice each month except during the summer when it comes out monthly. A subscription to the bulletin is $15.00 annually. The bulletin lists jobs in a variety of fields and across the U.S. To subscribe to the bulletin send your check for $15.00 to the Placement Service at the address given above.

RESIGNS — Basketball coach Sonny Smith announced his resignation February 8, citing frustrations over poor attendance and lack of sufficient support. Smith plans to give up coaching for the time being to enter private business in Tennessee.

Smith Resigns As Basketball Coach

Auburn basketball coach Sonny Smith surprised most Tiger faithful when he announced Feb. 8 that he will resign from the Auburn helm effective at the end of this season. Smith, who came to Auburn from East Tennessee State in 1978 and took the Tigers to a second place SEC finish and their first ever NCAA Tournament appearance last year, said the time had come for him to move on, despite the fact that Auburn promises to have an excellent team next year due to this season's fine freshman class and one of the top early recruiting jobs in the nation.

"The stress and pressure in the SEC is great," Smith said, "But not half as great as the stress and pressure that I put on myself. I set high goals for myself but we never reached those goals as far as winning was concerned. I felt without a doubt that with our style of play and the type of person I was that we could fill the building but we were unable to do it."

The search for a replacement for Smith has already begun, and assistant athletic director Oval Jaynes says a new coach could be named sometime in March.

DC Auburn Club Plans 2nd 10-K Tiger Trot

The Metro Washington Auburn Club will hold its second Tiger Trot 10-K on Sunday March 17 at 8 a.m. in West Potomac Park in Washington, D.C.

Runners can receive information and an entry form by calling or writing Dick Meagher, 6807 Soneybrooke Lane, Alexandria, Va. 22306, phone 703-768-0036.

The Metro Auburn Club uses the money to support its Auburn Scholarship Funds.
